Taxable and tax-deferred accounts have their benefits for accumulating assets and providing some liquidity. But if you have assets set aside for legacy gifting, life insurance may be more tax efficient and can help you leave a larger amount to your loved ones.

Various financial products may have different purposes, benefits, terms and conditions. When comparing types of accounts available for transferring assets, it is important to consider your accessibility to the account value for personal needs. Legacy Forward II is designed for asset transfer, with the primary purpose of providing a guaranteed death benefit to the policy owner's named beneficiary(ies) at the policy owner's death. The policy owner has access to the policy's cash value while living. Partial withdrawals and policy loans will reduce the cash value and death benefit. Additional restrictions, tax penalties and conditions may apply. Surrender charges may apply.

Guarantees are based on the claims-paying ability of the issuing insurance company. W&S Financial Group Distributors, Inc. In order for policies funded by an exchange to be issued as a non-MEC, the entire single premium must be in the form of a 1035 Exchange and the existing policy must not be a MEC.
